

DHS Screening, Information-Gathering, and Information-Sharing System

* If the mental health assessment has already been conducted when ICE or detention facility personnel become aware of or receive information that indicates a detainee may have a mental disorder or condition, the mental health provider must determine whether the new information affects the determination made on the initial mental health assessment and must cause the ICE Office of Chief Counsel to be notified if the information changes the determination.

Any additional documentation or information received by ICE OCC after the notice is filed must be provided to EOIR as soon as practicable after receipt.